I. General Provisions Applicable To All Hardware Warranties

Overview of Promethean Hardware Warranties:

Promethean offers two types of warranty "Standard ActivCare" and "ActivCare Plus" with the applicable warranty term and type of warranty being dependant on whether the products have been registered and/or an ActivCare Plus Warranty has been purchased. All warranty types are non-transferrable and apply only to products purchased from Promethean Group companies or its authorised Promethean Channel Partners.

Please Note: not every warranty type is offered in every country in which Promethean products are sold.

Promethean Standard ActivCare Warranty:

This is the warranty offering which is automatically provided for all non-registered Promethean hardware products. The warranty period starts on the date of purchase of the product from Promethean. Promethean Hardware products can still be registered to obtain a certificate and to start the warranty from the date of installation. Registration must take place through Promethean's Registration Portal within 90 days of the date of installation or set up.

Promethean ActivCare Plus Warranty:

This is the warranty extension and enhancement to the Promethean Standard ActivCare Warranty which may be purchased from Promethean or an authorised Promethean Channel Partner. ActivCare Plus must be activated through Promethean's Registration Portal within 180 days from the date of product installation or set up otherwise the enhancements do not apply. The Registration Terms & Conditions can be found in Part V at the end of this document.

Which by this reference both documents are incorporated and made part of these Hardware Warranty Terms and Conditions.

Installation:

Promethean recommends that all its products be installed by a competent installer. Damage caused by substandard installation will be excluded from the warranty; please refer to part III Warranty Exclusions. Promethean will not be liable for any damage to property or bodily injury resulting from improper, faulty or substandard installation.

II. Warranty Service Types

Promethean provides three types of service (see descriptions below) dependant on which of the two warranty types apply to the product. For all levels of warranty service the customer is responsible for contacting Promethean at the time of failure or fault. Promethean Customer Support will then complete a diagnostics process with the customer's co-operation.

A. Return for Repair:

1. Once a product has been diagnosed as defective, Promethean may advise the customer to arrange for the defective product to be de-installed, and appropriately packaged for transit at customer's own expense. The customer must ship the defective product back at their own expense to Promethean for repair or replacement. Promethean will advise the customer to where the defective product needs to be returned.
2. Delivery and Tracking of the defective product to Promethean is the customer's responsibility and it is suggested that a suitable shipper with tracking services be utilised.
3. Following receipt, inspection and approval by Promethean, the product will either be repaired or replaced at the discretion of Promethean and such product will be sent to the customer at Promethean's expense. De-installation and re-installation of the repaired or replaced part or product will be at the customer's own expense.
4. Products provided under warranty as a first time replacement will receive the benefit of the balance of the warranty term available for the product which they have replaced, commencing from the date of shipment of the replacement product from Promethean, except in the case of replacement lamps which will have a warranty period of 90 days from the date of shipment.

B. Advanced Replacement Cover:

1. Once a product has been diagnosed as defective Promethean may ship, at Promethean's discretion and expense, a replacement product to the customer in advance of the customer sending the defective product back. Promethean will notify the customer how to process the return of the defective product using the pre-paid label included with the replacement product. The customer must arrange for the de-installation of the defective product, package and ship to Promethean within 30 days of receipt of the replacement part or product. De-installation and re-installation of the replaced or repaired part or product will be at the customer's own expense.
2. If the defective product is not received by Promethean within 30 days of the replacement product being recorded by Promethean as being delivered to the customer, Promethean reserves the right to invoice the customer for the price of the product, shipping charges, and any other incidentals incurred in the provision of the part which the customer agrees to pay. The cost of the part or product will be determined by Promethean and will be based on the market retail price rate for the same or similar product.
3. Products provided under warranty as a first time replacement will receive the benefit of the balance of the warranty term available for the product which they have replaced commencing from the date of shipment of the replacement product from Promethean, except in the case of replacement lamps which will have a warranty period of 90 days from the date of shipment.
4. If a replacement product sent in advance is utilised as part of any other product, defective or otherwise, other than the defective product for which it was originally intended, such replacement product will have no further warranty and any balance left on the warranty term available from the original product sold will not apply.

C. On-Site Support:

1. Once a product has been diagnosed as defective, Promethean will arrange for a Promethean Service Provider (PSP) to visit the customer on-site. Promethean may also ship a replacement product to the customer for the PSP to utilise at their visit. Once the replacement product arrives at the customer site, customer is liable for the product's care and condition.
2. The PSP is responsible for de-installing the defective product and re-installing any replacements and for ensuring the product is in full working order before leaving the site.

3. The PSP is also responsible for packaging any faulty products from the customer location for return to Promethean.
4. If on arrival at a customer location the PSP is requested to repair a product(s) which do not have the same product details (e.g. serial number and product type), as reported at the time of the diagnosis, the PSP will not be required to complete the repair and Promethean reserves the right to invoice the customer for the call-out charge, and / or parts supplied under the original call / claim as well as any other incidentals incurred in the provision of the part which the customer agrees to pay.

C Dead on Arrival (DOA) Provision for Customers

A product qualifies as a DOA if it fails at first use within 10 days of installation or set up and within 120 days of purchase. Replacement lamps will be sent under the Advanced Replacement Cover service terms. Registration of a projector or purchase of an enhanced warranty does not extend the warranty term on a lamp beyond 3 years or 3000 hours. The warranty for the projector lamp applies exclusively to a complete failure of the lamp and does not apply to normal wear and tear such as reduced brightness over time. Projector lamps are consumable items and Promethean provides no guarantee that the expected life will be achieved.

G Products provided as promotional activity, at Promethean's sole discretion, will receive the Promethean Standard ActivCare Warranty applicable to the relevant product and country, starting from the date of shipment from Promethean.
